following came previous to the 29th of 8th month, 1682: RICHARD AMOR, HENRY PANSON, LUKE BRINSLEY, JOHN CLOW, JOSEPH CLOW, JOHN BROCK, WILLIAM VENABLES, and JOHN HEYCOCK. GEORGE POWNALL and WILLIAM YARDLEY came, also, this year, with their families. Several of these took up lands in the vicinity of the Falls, by virtue of patents from Sir EDMUND ANDROS, governor of New York, when this country was not known as Pennsylvania, being a short time previous to PENN'S grant from Charles II., in March, 1681.

CHAPTER VI.

THE FORMATION AND PROGRESS OF THE COUNTY.

WILLIAM PENN, the founder of Pennsylvania, landed at Upland, now called Chester, on the 29th of October,* 1682, in the ship Welcome, commanded by ROBERT GREENAWAY. One of the first acts of PENN, was to naturalize all the settlers who had seated themselves previously, and had remained after his arrival; and it appears to have been his warmest desire to extinguish every kind of title, or claims to the lands necessary for the accommodation of his colony, and to live in lasting terms of friendship with the Indians.

With those who came in the Welcome, with the great founder, and settled in Bucks, were THOMAS FITZWATER, NICHOLAS WALN, CUTHBERT HAYHURST, GILES KNIGHT, JOHN ROWLAND, THOMAS ROWLAND, and WILLIAM BUCKMAN, all having families. Shortly after in the same year, the following, also, arrived: HENRY MARJORUM, WILLIAM BRAKS, HENRY COMLY, JOHN SCARBOROUGH, THOMAS WALMSLEY, RANDOLPH BLACKSHAW, JAMES HARRISON, PHINEAS PEMBERTON, RALPH PEMBERTON, ROBERT BOND, JOSEPH KIRKBRIDE, ELLIS JONES, JAMES CLAYTON, and JAMES DILWORTH. In 1683, THOMAS JANNEY, GEORGE STONE, RICHARD HOUGH, JOHN PALMER, JOSHUA HOOPES, WILLIAM BENNET, JOHN HOUGH, HENRY BAKER, JOSEPH GROWDON, LAWRENCE GROWDON, and DAVID DAVIS. In 1684, JOHN CHAPMAN, THOMAS LANGHORN, and DAVID HALL. The succeeding year came JOHN CLOWS, Sr., EDMUND CUTTER and EDWARD STANTON. Most of these mentioned brought families and a considerable number of servants, male and female; also relatives.

As at this time much interest is expressed concerning the early settlers, especially by their numerous descendents, we take occasion here to say that in our future articles, on the local history of the county, full particulars will be given, or at least as much so as success has favored our researches.

On the 4th of December, following, WILLIAM PENN called together, at Chester, the first Assembly, and Bucks with Philadelphia and Chester, formed the three original counties. The members from Bucks were, WILLIAM YARDLEY, SAMUEL DARKE, ROBERT LUCAS, NICHOLAS WALN, JOHN WOOD, JOHN CLOWS, THOMAS FITZWATER, ROBERT HALL, and JAMES BOYDEN. RICHARD NOBLE was chosen the

That Thomas and John were brothers is proved by Bucks Deeds 1:10 f., 117, 323, 354; 2:169; 3:113 f. Thomas is shown as alive and joins with John in 1: 117 (1 4th mo. 1684), 1:10 f. (1 10th mo. 1685) but is dead by 9 7th mo. 1690 (1:323) when John is called his only heir. At Middletown Monthly Meeting 2 6th mo. 1688, Tho Rowland is directed to draw a certificate, and he is living also 7 9th mo. 1689, 6 1st mo. 1690, but on 5 4th mo. 1690 is spoken of as dead, and he was buried on 17 3rd mo. 1690.

Bucks Deeds 3:113 f. (10 1st mo. 1702/3, recorded 5 3rd mo. 1703), show John Rowland selling for £12 to George Hayworth of Bristol Township, and the recital states that Penn had granted to Thomas Rowland, 13-14 July 1681, 2500 acres, and that Thomas died intestate [no administration found in either Bucks or Philadelphia counties] and John now sells from this right. Deeds 3:27 (11 4th mo. 1700, recorded 24 8th 1700), John Rowland of Bucks County, yeoman, and wife Priscilla, convey to John Hiatt land granted by Penn 22 3rd mo. 1686. Deeds 2:149 f. (10 1st mo. 1694, recorded 12 8th mo. 1697), John Rowland and wife Priscilla sell for £20 to Arthur Cook, property called Little Money Hill, inherited by Priscilla from Ralph Smith in his will dated 9 2nd mo. 1685. [See at the end of this sketch the excursus on this Ralph Smith.]

Priscilla Rowland was the first woman to sign the marriage certificate of John Town to Deborah Bottle,[8] and Jno Rowland was also a signer. The marriage certificate of Shadrach Walley to Mary Sharpe, 12 1st mo. 1688, was signed by, among others, Jo Rowland, Tho Rowland, Willm Buckman, Tho Rogers, Priscilla Rowland, Hannah X Rogers.

The minutes of the same Middletown Monthly Meeting (19th century copy at the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania) contain a character reference dated Philadelphia 1682, signed by John Songhurst, Mary Songhurst, Elizabeth B[arber], for John and Thomas Rowland, stating that Thomas Rowland was clear in respect of marriage. The day on which this certificate was signed must have been between the arrival of the Welcome and the end of the year 1682 Old Style, that is to say, between 28 8th mo. 1682 and 24 1st mo. 1682/3, and in view of the nature of the certificate, rather earlier in this period than late.

The will of John Rowland[9] dated 3 Dec. 1715, probated 3 March 1715/16, with inventory dated 30 May 1716, £604/10, a large sum, taken by Jeffrey Pollard and William Brelesford, contains an undated codicil above the signature which manumits slave girl Lica. Mention is made of dwelling house at Bristol, bolting house and lot; a church, unidentified; to Mary, wife of Henry Tomlinson, £50; to Thomas Rogers Juner, who is named executor; trustees: Anthony Burton on behalfe of the Church, Robert Cobert; signed Jn^{o} Rowland; witnesses: John Large, Jn Hall, Timothy Towne. The connection with Thomas Rogers Jr. was that he was a son of Hannah Mogeridge who had come on the Welcome as a servant to the Rowlands.

The Blackwell Rent Roll of 1689[10] shows Priscilla Shepherd as owner of an old purchase 49½ foot lot on Walnut Street, 1/- for five years; Tho Rowland owner of an old purchase lot on High Street 66 feet, 2/6 for five years[11]; John Rowland owner of an old purchase lot of 33 feet at High and Third from the Schuylkill, a year term, rent not stated.[12]

As we have seen that Priscilla Rowland was still living in 1705, we are surprised to find Mrs. Jane W. T. Brey, A Quaker Saga (Philadelphia 1967), p. 143, alluding to a will of Priscilla Rowland dated 9 2nd mo. 1696, probated 26 3rd mo. 1696, where, not stated. Inquiry of Mrs. Brey brought forth the reply that the dates given for execution and the probate of this will should have been, rather, 1685 and 1686, respectively. As this did not help the problem but actually made it worse, in view of all the evidence already presented to show that Priscilla did not die in 1686, Mrs. Brey consulted her source which proved to be a secondary source at the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania. It was now discovered that there was really no will of Priscilla Rowland, but a reference to Priscilla Rowland in the will of Ralph Smith, as shown above, and the date of probation should really be 20 4th mo. 1686.

A. Excursus on Ralph Smith

The will of Ralph Smith dated 9 2nd mo. 1685, probated in Bucks County, 20 4th mo. 1686[13] is here described from personal inspection of the original. It is stated[14] that Ralph Smith, the governor's gardiner, was buried att the burying place in the point, 5 3rd mo. 1685, a cemetery probably the one from which many of the Pemberton graves were removed to another site within the bounds of the restored Pennsbury Manor; if not, one quite near that spot.

That Thomas and John were brothers is proved by Bucks Deeds 1:10 f., 117, 323, 354; 2:169; 3:113 f. Thomas is shown as alive and joins with John in 1: 117 (1 4th mo. 1684), 1:10 f. It is stated[14] that Ralph Smith, the governor's gardiner, was buried att the burying place in the point, 5 3rd mo. 1685, a cemetery probably the one from which many of the Pemberton graves were removed to another site within the bounds of the restored Pennsbury Manor; if not, one quite near that spot.

Clarke (not named); granddaughter Elizabeth Wright; grandchildren living in Pennsylvania; executors: son-in-law [stepson] Thomas Eayre, grandson John Garwood; witnesses: Richard Eayre, Sarah Eayre, Gabriel Blond. Inventory of 22 June 1753 taken by John Hiller and Henry Burr came to £106/3/6. (Where Charity Garwood and Elizabeth Wright should appear in the family is not clear.)

Issue: surname Brock, all by first husband

i. John, eldest son; by Dec. 1725 he had d., obviously unm., and his property had by then descended to his brother Ralph who lost it by sheriff's sale in that month.[28]

ii. Ralph, millwright, living 1747 after which he has not been found. Richard Eayre and Elizabeth Eayre late relict of John Brock late of Bucks dec., released to Ralph Brock, millwright, 3 Nov. 1713.[29] He was of Makefield Township, Bucks Co., 10 Dec. 12 Anne 1713.[30] It may be cautiously suggested that he went to England.

iii. Jane, m. John Miers, according to her mother's will of 1747. Whether or not Jane was living is not clear, but at one time this couple had lived in Lewes, Delaware, and it is possible that this was the John Miers who m., if so, a second marriage, Ann Cummings at Wilmington Monthly Meeting, 2 1st mo. 1748, the record as abstracted by C. H. B. Turner (papers in the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania) calling him James Miers, but John Miers' will, 31 Nov. 1749, probated 28 Feb. 1749/50[31] names wife Anne and, among others, daughter Jane Cord, shown below.

Issue: surname Miers, probably all

1. Jane, unm. when mentioned in grandmother's will in 1747, as child of her parents. She m. Joseph Cord and was called Jane Cord in her father's will. Deeds of Joseph Cord and wife Jean dated 10 12th mo. 1753 and 30 7th mo. 1784 were cited by Turner (ibid. 1: 79c, 85).

iv. Richard, b. Makefield, ca. 1695, d. Solebury by 1753 and probably before 1747 as he appears not to be living when mentioned in that year in his mother's will. He m. 1718 Susanna Scarborough, daughter of John.

1. Tabitha
2. Elizabeth
3. Susanna
4. Elizabeth, m. by 1747 ----- Pierce. She and the three sisters listed above are named in their grandmother's will.
5. ?John, m. Abington Meeting, 4 5th mo. 1753, Sarah Jenkins.
6. ?Hannah, m. Abington Presbyterian Church 17 Sept. 1740, Nathaniel Davis. Neither she nor her brother John are in Elizabeth Eayre's will in 1747.

v. Mary, m. by 1747 ----- Clarke and then had unnamed children. As Richard Eayre's will does not mention her, she cannot have been a stepdaughter of Elizabeth.

vi. Elizabeth, aged 14 in 1709, not living 1747.

2. Jane Maude, elder daughter by the second husband Joshua Maude, was aged 15/2/1 in 1682 when she came on the Submission with her sister Margery and her stepsister Rebecca Wynne.[32] She married first, at Lewes, Delaware, 15 7th mo. 1687, Isaac Bowde, whose estate[33] calls him Isaac Bonde [Bowde, Barode] and shows administration to his former wife Jane Scott, 6 Sept. 1692[34]; second, by 6 Sept. 1692, ----- Scott, who may have been the Thomas Scott mentioned in the will of John Fisher the elder; third, ----- Lucas, not identified, but probably a widower with small children for whose provision the Court ordered Cornelius Wiltbanck to take steps; fourth, Cornelius Wiltbanck, eldest son of Helmanus Wiltbanck by his wife Jane -----.[35] This fourth marriage probably took place by February 1703, the date of the court order cited above. Jane Maude had no issue by any of her four husbands and died between 21 Jan. 1717/8, when she was mentioned in the will of James Seatton, and 1720, when Cornelius Wiltbanck married, second, Hannah (Kollock) White. Cornelius Wiltbanck's will, dated 10 March 1723/4,[36] calls him gent., names wife Hannah, son Isaac, brother Abraham Wiltbanck and cousins [probably children of Hannah] Ambrose and Jacob White; daughters-in-law Mary and Comfort White. It was probated 1 April 1724. The Lucas stepchildren probably included Peter Lucas whose will[37] is dated 7 March 1720/1, probated 27 March

Whether or not Jane was living is not clear, but at one time this couple had lived in Lewes, Delaware, and it is possible that this was the John Miers who m., if so, a second marriage, Ann Cummings at Wilmington Monthly Meeting, 2 1st mo. 1748, the record as abstracted by C. H. B. Turner (papers in the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania) calling him James Miers, but John Miers' will, 31 Nov. 1749, probated 28 Feb. 1749/50[31] names wife Anne and, among others, daughter Jane Cord, shown below.

Issue: surname Miers, probably all

1. Jane, unm. when mentioned in grandmother's will in 1747, as child of her parents. She m. Joseph Cord and was called Jane Cord in her father's will. Deeds of Joseph Cord and wife Jean dated 10 12th mo. 1753 and 30 7th mo. 1784 were cited by Turner (ibid. 1: 79c, 85).

iv. Richard, b. Makefield, ca. 1695, d. Solebury by 1753 and probably before 1747 as he appears not to be living when mentioned in that year in his mother's will. He m. 1718 Susanna Scarborough, daughter of John.

Issue: surname Brock

1. Tabitha
2. Elizabeth
3. Susanna
4. Elizabeth, m. by 1747 ----- Pierce. She and the three sisters listed above are named in their grandmother's will.
5. ?John, m. Abington Meeting, 4 5th mo. 1753, Sarah Jenkins.
6. ?Hannah, m. Abington Presbyterian Church 17 Sept. 1740, Nathaniel Davis. Neither she nor her brother John are in Elizabeth Eayre's will in 1747.

v. Mary, m. by 1747 ----- Clarke and then had unnamed children. As Richard Eayre's will does not mention her, she cannot have been a stepdaughter of Elizabeth.

vi. Elizabeth, aged 14 in 1709, not living 1747.

2. Jane Maude, elder daughter by the second husband Joshua Maude, was aged 15/2/1 in 1682 when she came on the Submission with her sister Margery and her stepsister Rebecca Wynne.[32] She married first, at Lewes, Delaware, 15 7th mo. 1687, Isaac Bowde, whose estate[33] calls him Isaac Bonde [Bowde, Barode] and shows administration to his former wife Jane Scott, 6 Sept. 1692[34]; second, by 6 Sept. 1692, ----- Scott, who may have been the Thomas Scott mentioned in the will of John Fisher the elder; third, ----- Lucas, not identified, but probably a widower with small children for whose provision the Court ordered Cornelius Wiltbanck to take steps; fourth, Cornelius Wiltbanck, eldest son of Helmanus Wiltbanck by his wife Jane -----.[35] This fourth marriage probably took place by February 1703, the date of the court order cited above. Jane Maude had no issue by any of her four husbands and died between 21 Jan. 1717/8, when she was mentioned in the will of James Seatton, and 1720, when Cornelius Wiltbanck married, second, Hannah (Kollock) White. Cornelius Wiltbanck's will, dated 10 March 1723/4,[36] calls him gent., names wife Hannah, son Isaac, brother Abraham Wiltbanck and cousins [probably children of Hannah] Ambrose and Jacob White; daughters-in-law Mary and Comfort White. It was probated 1 April 1724. The Lucas stepchildren probably included Peter Lucas whose will[37] is dated 7 March 1720/1, probated 27 March following came previous to the 29th of 8th month, 1682: RICHARD AMOR, HENRY PAXSON, LUKE BRINSLEY, JOHN CLOW, JOSEPH CLOW, JOHN BROCK, WILLIAM VENABLES, and JOHN HEYCOCK. GEORGE POWNALL and WILLIAM YARDLEY came, also, this year, with their families. Several of these took up lands in the vicinity of the Falls, by virtue of patents from Sir EDMUND ANDROS, governor of New York, when this country was not known as Pennsylvania, being a short time previous to PENN's grant from Charles II., in March, 1681.

CHAPTER VI.

THE FORMATION AND PROGRESS OF THE COUNTY.

WILLIAM PENN, the founder of Pennsylvania, landed at Upland, now called Chester, on the 29th of October,* 1682, in the ship Welcome, commanded by ROBERT GREENAWAY. One of the first acts of PENN, was to naturalize all the settlers who had seated themselves previously, and had remained after his arrival; and it appears to have been his warmest desire to extinguish every kind of title, or claims to the lands necessary for the accommodation of his colony, and to live in lasting terms of friendship with the Indians.

With those who came in the Welcome, with the great founder, and settled in Bucks, were THOMAS FITZWATER, NICHOLAS WALN, CUTHBERT HAYHURST, GILES KNIGHT, JOHN ROWLAND, THOMAS ROWLAND, and WILLIAM BUCKMAN, all having families. Shortly after in the same year, the following, also, arrived: HENRY MARJORUM, WILLIAM BRAKS, HENRY COMLY, JOHN SCARBOROUGH, THOMAS WALMSLEY, RANDOLPH BLACKSHAW, JAMES HARRISON, PHINEAS PEMBERTON, RALPH PEMBERTON, ROBERT BOND, JOSEPH KIRKBRIDE, ELLIS JONES, JAMES CLAYTON, and JAMES DILWORTH. In 1683, THOMAS JANNEY, GEORGE STONE, RICHARD HOUGH, JOHN PALMER, JOSHUA HOOPES, WILLIAM BENNET, JOHN HOUGH, HENRY BAKER, JOSEPH GROWDON, LAWRENCE GROWDON, and DAVID DAVIS. In 1684, JOHN CHAPMAN, THOMAS LANGHORN, and DAVID HALL. The succeeding year came JOHN CLOWS, Sr., EDMUND CUTTER and EDWARD STANTON. Most of these mentioned brought families and a considerable number of servants, male and female; also relatives.

As at this time much interest is expressed concerning the early settlers, especially by their numerous descendents, we take occasion here to say that in our future articles, on the local history of the county, full particulars will be given, or at least as much so as success has favored our researches.

On the 4th of December, following, WILLIAM PENN called together, at Chester, the first Assembly, and Bucks with Philadelphia and Chester, formed the three original counties. The members from Bucks were, WILLIAM YARDLEY, SAMUEL DARKE, ROBERT LUCAS, NICHOLAS WALN, JOHN WOOD, JOHN CLOWS, THOMAS FITZWATER, ROBERT HALL, and JAMES BOYDEN. RICHARD NOBLE was chosen the first sheriff. At a Council held at Philadelphia, the 23d of 1st month, 1683, in the presence of the Proprietary and Governor, it was ordered, "That the seal of the county of Bucks be a Tree and Vine."

* According to new style, 9th of November, 1682.

About the time that WILLIAM PENN organized the county, in 1682, he selected an extensive tract of fine land on the banks of the Delaware, four or five miles above where Bristol now stands, which he called Pennsbury Manor, intending to establish there his favorite country residence. He says in a letter he had bought it a short time previously of an old Indian King, and had once been a royalty called Sepessin. This name I also find on LINDSTROME'S map of 1654, as given to the stream afterwards called Welcome creek. This tract originally contained 8,431 acres, but after 1684, was reduced by various grants. Here, by the margin of the Delaware, PENN got his mansion constructed in the years 1682-3, under the direction of his relative, MARKHAM, at a cost of £7000, which at that day was a great sum. For its better construction a considerable quantity of the most finished and ornamental materials had been brought from England. Here he lived after 1683 with his family for several years, and held numerous treaties and covenants with the Indians, religious meetings, &c.

The first English settlers located themselves along the Delaware, mostly in the vicinity of the Falls, Pennsbury, and Bristol. They nearly all belonged to the Society of Friends, and strong expectations were entertained by many of them at first that the city of Philadelphia would be located either at Pennsbury, or Bristol; but it was deemed that the river channel was too shallow for ship navigation up so far as those places. From the arrival of PENN, we may date the continued prosperity of the county, down to the present time, assisted, as it was, by a steady influx of emigrants from Europe.

PHINEAS PEMBERTON, whom we have already mentioned, as having shortly arrived here after PENN, and who is so well and favorably known in the early annals of Bucks, was commissioned the first Clerk of the Court, as the following for the first time published bears testimony:

"WILLIAM PENN, Proprietary and Governor of the Provence of Pennsylvania and the Territories thereunto belonging. To PHINEAS PEMBERTON greeting: Reposing confidence in thy integrity and ability, I do hereby constitute and appoint thee Clark of the Court of the County of Bucks, to act in the same employment with all diligence, faithfulness and according to law; and to receive the fees due as by law directed. This Commission to be of force as long as thou shalt well behave thyself therein. Given at Pennsbury the Twenty-first of the Fifth month, One thousand six hundred and eighty-three. WM. PENN."

It appears the bounds of the county were not clearly determined on till the 8th of 2d month, 1685, when the Council passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, there is a necessity to ascertain the bounds of the several counties of Pennsylvania, in order to the raising and collecting of taxes, public monies, and otherways to adjust the limits of the respective Sheriffs for the performing of their power and duty; and also, that the people might know into what county they belong and appertain to answer their duties and places; and whereas, the Governor, in the presence of THOMAS JANNEY and PHINEAS PEMBERTON, was pleased to say and grant that the bounds of the county of Bucks and Philadelphia should be as follows:—

"To begin at the mouth of Poetquessink creek on Delaware, and so by the said creek, and to take in the townships of Southampton and Warminster, in obedience thereto and confirmation thereof, the President and Council having seriously weighed and considered the same, have and do hereby agree and order that the bounds between the said counties shall be thus: to begin at the mouth of Poetquessink creek on Delaware river, and go up thence along the said creek by the several cources thereof, to a southwest and northeast line, which said line divides the land belonging to JOSEPH GROWDON and company, from Southampton township; from thence by a line of marked trees along the said line 120 perches more or less, from thence northwest by a line of marked trees, which said line in part divides the land belonging to NICHOLAS MOORE from Southampton and Warminster townships, continuing the said line as far as the said county shall extend."*

The Council on the 2d of 11th month, 1689, "Ordered that commissions of the Peace be made for all the counties, and these persons following be inserted." For Bucks, ARTHUR COOK, JOSEPH GROWDEN, WILLIAM YARDLEY, THOMAS JANNEY, WILLIAM BILES, NICHOLAS NEWLIN, JOHN BROCK, and HENRY BAKER.

Concerning the "Court of Inquiry" we believe nothing has yet been published. The following commission constituting it was copied literally from the original document now in possession of the Historical Society; this is our apology for giving it at length.

"WILLIAM PENN, absolute Proprietary and governor in Chief of the Provence of Pennsylvania and territories thereunto belonging.

"To my Trusty and well beloved Friends PHINEAS PEMBERTON, WILLIAM BILES, and RICHARD HOUGH—sendeth Greeting:—

"For the compleat Settling and Establishing of Affairs of Property within the County of Bucks in this Provence of Pensilvania. Know ye That I have constituted and appointed you, and doe hereby appoint and Commission You the said PHINEAS PEMBERTON, WILLIAM BILES, and RICHARD HOUGH, or any two of You to hold a Court of Inquiry, for examining, Searching and Inquiring into the Rights, Titles and Claims of all and Singular the ffreeholders or Inhabitants of the said County, to any Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments within the same, at such times and places in the said county as to you shall seem most convenient. Hereby granting unto you full power and authority by your Order or Warrant under the hand of any two of you, to summon or cause to be summoned all persons concerned to appear before you in the said Court, as you shall appoint; to produce all Grants, Letters Patent, Conveyances, Records, and all other Papers and Writings, as you shall see cause, that in any wise relate to Their Titles or Claims as aforesaid. ALSO to commend and require all needful Officers, especially ye Constables of the said County, to attend your Service, as there shall be occasion, who are hereby required and Commanded to obey all your Orders respectively herein. I doe also hereby further Improve You the said PHINEAS PEMBERTON, WILLIAM BILES, and RICHARD HOUGH, or any two of you, fully to inquire into the State of my Quitrents in the said County, and diligently to examine what part of the Said Rents have been paid, and to whom, and what remaineth behind unpaid, and to take and keep an exact account thereof. ALSO carefully to inquire into all Escheats, fines and ffeirfeitures, that are fallen to me or become my due in ye sd County, And of all your Proceedings in pursuance of this Commission make a due and faithful Report to me fairly in writing, under your hands, to the end that ye State of Property in the Said County being particularly known, the respective Inhabitants and ffreeholders may be the more effectually Settled and Confirmed in all their just titles and Claims to lands therein. Given under my Hand and great Seal of the Provence, at Philadelphia, the eighteenth day of the Tenth Month, 1700.

WM. PENN."

From PHINEAS PEMBERTON'S "Registry of all wills, letters of administrations," &c., beginning with the 10th of 10 month, 1684 to 1693, in the Recorder's office, we have evidence enough of the great mortality among the early settlers. This no doubt, was much owing to change of life and country. From PEMBERTON'S letters, we also learn, that in 1687, a great land flood and freshet at the Falls occasioned much sickness. On the 27th of 2d month, 1692, from the sudden melt-

* Col. Records, i. 320.

In 1700, WILLIAM BILES was a member of the Provincial Council. The following year PHINEAS PEMBERTON was appointed by PENN one of his council of State, and SAMUEL PRESTON to the Provincial Council. JOSEPH GROWDON, JOHN SWIFT, JOSHUA HOOPES, and WILLIAM PAXSON were members of Assembly, of which JOSEPH GROWDEN presided as Speaker.

WILLIAM CROASDALE being sheriff, returned as members in 1707, HENRY PAXSON, SAMUEL DARKE, JOHN SWIFT, WILLIAM PAXSON, THOMAS HILLBORN, WILLIAM BILES, EZRA CROASDALE, and SAMUEL BEAKS. WILLIAM BILES became coroner in 1717. In October, 1725, the following were elected members for Bucks': JEREMIAH LANGHORN, WILLIAM BILES, JOSEPH FELL, ABRAHAM CHAPMAN, CHRISTIAN VANHORN, MATHEW HUGHES, BENJAMIN JONES, and THOMAS WATSON.

The progress of settlement in Bucks is shown by a petition numerously signed, praying the Council to grant them a road for the convenience of travel, from the river Delaware to Philadelphia, which was passed by the Governor and Council, Nov. 3d, 1711; and was laid out the same month by PETER CHAMBERLAIN, GEORGE SHOEMAKER, DANIEL THOMAS, ISAAC KNIGHT, HENRY BENNET, JOHN SCARBOROUGH, THOMAS WATSON, STEPHEN JENKENS, NATHANIEL BYE, MATHEW HUGHES, and GRIFFITH MILES. It was commenced opposite JOHN READING'S landing, in Solebury, to Buckingham Meeting House, then through THOMAS WATSON'S land, by the house of STEPHEN JENKENS and GEORGE SHOEMAKER, to Philadelphia. This is now known as the old York road; and JOHN READING'S landing, in Solebury, as mentioned, was at a later period known as Howell's Ferry, now Centre Bridge, four miles above New Hope.

In this country when the Europeans first came, they found much to interest and surprise, occasioned by the novelty of things around them; generally so different from what they had been accustomed to. As an instance the following is Mr. SANDEL'S account of the first general appearance of the locusts:

In May, 1715, a multitude of locusts came out of the ground everywhere, even on the solid roads. They were wholly covered with a shell, and it seemed very wonderful that they could with this penetrate the hard earth. Having come out of the earth, they crept out of the shells, flew away, sat down on the trees, and made a peculiar noise till evenings. Being spread over the country in such numbers, the noise they made was so loud that the cow-bells could scarcely be heard in the woods. They pierced the bark on the branches of trees, and deposited their eggs in the opening. Many apprehended that the trees would wither in consequence of this, but no symptom of it was observed next year. Hogs and poultry fed on them. Even the Indians did eat them, especially when they first came, boiling them a little. They did not continue long, but died in the month of June. The same year was very fruitful.*

In 1717, the governor, Sir WILLIAM KEITH, with the advice of the Council, appointed the following persons Justices of the Peace, for the county of Bucks:—JOSEPH KIRKBRIDE, JEREMIAH LANGHORNE, THOMAS STEVENSON, THOMAS WATSON, EVERARD BOULTON, THOMAS WATSON, of Buckingham, WILLIAM BILES, ANTHONY BURTON, JOHN SNOWDEN, JOSEPH BOND, JOHN HALL, and CHRISTOPHER VANSANT, and a Commission is ordered to pass the Great Seal.†

By an act of the General Assembly, passed March 20th, 1724, the county buildings for Bucks were directed to be built at Newtown, as being more central and convenient for the people. Heretofore the courts and county business had been transacted at Bristol, for nearly a quarter of a century, but as the population kept steadily extending itself upwards more into the country, the change had become desirable. We believe the courts were not held at Newtown till 1725, owing probably till on or near the completion of the court house.

To Bucks county belongs the honor of having one of the earliest Seminaries of learning in the State. The Rev. WILLIAM TENNENT came from Ireland, in 1718, and three years after settled in Bensalem; from thence about 1728, he removed to the Neshaminy, in Warwick township, and established here an Academy, which was more particularly intended for the education of ministers for the Presbyterian church. As Mr. TENNENT was much celebrated for his profound and accurate acquaintance with the Latin and Greek classics, which he taught here with great success, his school justly became distinguished as having produced some of the earliest and ablest divines in the church, among whom could be named ROWLAND, LAWRENCE, CAMPBELL, BEATTY, ROBINSON, BLAIR, and the four sons of Mr. TENNENT, GILBERT, WILLIAM, JOHN, and CHARLES. In consequence of having been constructed of logs, this school has been popularly denominated the the "Log College."

The following Justices of the Peace were commissioned for Bucks, the 22d of November, 1738; WILLIAM BILES, JOSEPH KIRKBRIDE, THOMAS CANBY, THOMAS YARDLEY, MATHEW HUGHES, LAWRENCE GROWDON, BENJAMIN JONES, ISAAC PENNINGTON, ABRAHAM PENNINGTON, ABRAHAM CHAPMAN, SIMON BUTLER, JOHN WELLS, MATHEW KUW, RICHARD MITCHELL, of Durham, and the Chief Burgess of Bristol, for the time being.

To show the changes of the seasons formerly, we extract the following from COMLY'S sketches of Byberry:

"Old people used to tell us that the winters formerly were more remarkable for cold weather, and that there was more snow than of latter time. In the hard winter of 1740, the snow covered the fences; and the crust on the top of it was so firm that it would bear sleds and horses, so that people could travel in any direction, without reference to roads. We are also told of a very moderate winter, the ground being so little frozen that they could plough all winter with the exception of two or three days."*

An act was passed the 11th of March, 1752, to erect the northwestern part of Bucks into a separate county; the necessity of which will appear obvious in the following extract:

"Whereas a great number of the inhabitants of the upper parts of the county of Bucks, by their petition, have humbly represented to the Governor and Assembly of this provence the great hardships they lay under by being so remote from the present seat of judicature, and the public offices, that the necessary means to be used for obtaining justice is attended with so much difficulty and expense, that many forego their right, rather than attempt the recovery of it under such circumstances, while others, sensible of these difficulties, commit great villanies with impunity. For remedying whereof, and for relief of the inhabitants, Be it enacted, That all and singular the lands lying within the provence of Pennsylvania, aforesaid, be erected into a county, and the same is hereby erected into a county, named, and henceforth to be called, Northampton; to be divided from the county of Bucks by the upper or northwestward line of Durham tract, to the upper corner thereof; then by a streight line to be run southwestwardly to the line dividing Philadelphia and Bucks counties; and then by that line to the extremity of the said provence."

Previous to the passage of this act, Bucks in its extent underwent no alterations from the time of its formation in 1682, a period of seventy years, and must have then contained at least 1364 square miles. That is by allowing it to have extended to the Kittatinny mountains, though it really, on the Delaware, extended, as we shall see, somewhat further. The division line of 1685 extended in a northwest course from the Poetquessing creek, to an indefinite length, but finally as the population spread, was terminated at the Kittatinny or Blue mountains, then some distance beyond any white settlements. From the county records we learn that WILLIAM ALLEN and NICHOLAS DEPUE, as early as 1733, purchased great tracts of lands above the mountains on the Delaware, which are stated to be in Bucks. Mention is likewise made of a Shawnee town. One island, called Maw-wallamink, containing 120 acres, is stated to be opposite DEPUE'S place of residence; the other containing 146 acres, is called the Great Shawnee Island, and being opposite the said Indian town. The lands about the confluence of the Lehigh and Delaware rivers, were mostly taken up about 1737; when BENJAMIN EASBURN, the surveyor-general, laid out several tracts, containing upwards of 3,000 acres, for WILLIAM ALLEN of Philadelphia. About 1738 to 1740, the Moravians settled in and near Bethlehem and Nazareth, and what is now known as Milford, Saucon, and several adjoining townships had been settled sometime earlier. So Northampton, at the time of its formation, most probably contained several thousand inhabitants, and a majority of these resided upwards of forty miles from Newtown, the county seat of Bucks. With our present conveniences, we can hardly realize the difficulties that beset the hardy pioneers.

In the time of the French and Indian war in the year 1756, the people of this county organized, for their protection, nine associated companies, as they were called, containing 513 men, but their services we believe never were required.—The following list of officers is given from the Archives.*

From the formation of the county to the commencement of the Revolution, a century had nearly elapsed, yet in all this time, peace, tranquility and contentment prevailed within her borders; the historian cannot chronicle here scenes of violence and bloodshed. The whites, though composed of the different nations of Europe, not only lived in harmony with the natives, but with each other; thus the country rapidly advanced in population, knowledge, and the arts and sciences. Love thy neighbor as thyself was practically carried out by the kindness, justice, and generosity of the early settlers. The Indians—the rude and untutored sons of the forest—reciprocated every act, with some of the noblest traits that adorn human nature. During the long and bloody wars on our frontiers, which continued with little intermission from 1744 to 1764, scenes of the most atrocious and barbarous character were enacted, as if each side endeavored to excel the other in cruelty; the people of Bucks county adhered to their pacific character and remained unmolested. Had the Proprietaries and successors of William Penn adhered to his principles, no doubt the result would have been different; the people here were sensible of their misconduct, and long, no doubt, before the Revolution was thought of, a change was desired, that they might choose their own rulers and control the affairs of government as best suited their wishes. But the wheel of Time was hastening the event, yea, sooner, it seems, than was anticipated. Like the mountain avalanche, its speed increased with its progress, till no obstacles could resist its impetuosity.

CHAPTER VII.

The Commencement of the Revolution.

At a meeting of a number of the inhabitants of the county of Bucks, held at Newtown, agreeable to notice given, on Saturday the 9th day of July, 1774, Gilbert Hicks, Esq., was appointed Chairman, and William Walton, Secretary. The chairman, having taken his place, in a short address to the company explained the nature and intention of the meeting, when they proceeded to business, which was carried on and finished with the greatest propriety and harmony.

"In this time of public distress, when, by the operation of divers acts of the British Parliament, the Americans are subjected to the universal control of a Legislature, in which they are not represented. The inhabitants of the county of Bucks, at a meeting held, at Newtown, on the 9th day of July, appointed the following gentlemen as a committee to represent them at a meeting of the several committees of the respective counties of Pennsylvania, to be held at Philadelphia, the 15th day of July, inst., viz: John Kidd, Joseph Kirkbride, Joseph Hart, James Wallace, Henry Wynkoop, Samuel Foulke, and Joseph Wilkinson.

"After which the sense of the inhabitants of the said county, was recommended to them as general rules for their conduct at the said meeting in the following resolves, viz:

"Resolved, That the inhabitants of this county have the same opinion of the dangerous tendency of the claims of the British Parliament, to make laws, binding on the inhabitants of these Colonies, in all cases whatsoever, without their consent, as other our fellow American subjects have.

"Resolved, That it is the duty of every American, when oppress by measures either of Ministry, Parliament, or any other power, to use every lawful endeavor to obtain relief, and to form and promote a plan of union, between the Parent country and Colonies, in which the claim of the Parent country may be ascertained, and the liberties of the Colonies defined and secured, that no cause of contention, in future, may arise to disturb that harmony, so necessary for the interest and happiness of both; and that this will be best done, in a General Congress, to be composed of Delegates, to be appointed either by the respective Colonial Assemblies, or by the members thereof, in convention.

"A large majority of the Committee chosen on the 15th of December last, in pursuance of notice for that purpose given, assembled in Newtown, January 16th, 1775, and unanimously chose Joseph Hart, Esq., Chairman, and John Chapman, Secretary.

"The Committee then taking into consideration the measures recommended by the Continental Congress, for the redress of American grievances, entered into the following resolves, unanimously:

"1st. That we highly approve of the pacific measures recommended by the Continental Congress, for redress of American grievances, and do hereby render our unfeigned thanks to the worthy gentlemen who composed that august Assembly, for the faithful discharge of the trust reposed in them.

"2d. That we hold ourselves bound in justice to ourselves, our posterity, our king and

JOHN CLOWS, yeoman, of Gosworth, Cheshire, arrived here in the Endeavor, in 1683, with his wife, MARGERY, and children, SARAH, MARGERY, and WILLIAM; and servants, JOSEPH CHORLEY, SAMUEL HOUGH, and JOHN RICHARDSON. The same year we find him a member of Assembly. His daughter, MARGERY, was married at his house, to RICHARD HOUGH, the 17th of 1st month, 1683. SARAH, was married to JOHN BAINBRIDGE, the 15th of 6th month, 1685. We learn from the records that JOHN CLOWS died in 1688. JOSEPH CHORLEY, mentioned as his servant, was married the 6th of 2nd month, 1686, to MARY ACKERMAN.

GEORGE POWNAL, yeoman, came from Laycock, Cheshire, in the Friends' Adventure, and arrived here the 28th of 7th month, 1682, with his wife, ELEANOR, and children, REUBEN, ELIZABETH, SARAH, RACHEL, and ABIGAIL; and servants, JOHN BREARLY, ROBERT SAYLOR, and MARTHA WORRAL. He was killed accidently by the fall of a tree, the 30th of 8th month, 1682. His widow retained possession of his property.

WILLIAM YARDLEY, yeoman, came from Ranscleugh, near Leeke, in Staffordshire, in the Friends' Adventure, with his wife, JANE, and children, ENOCH, THOMAS, and WILLIAM; and as servant, ANDREW HEATH. Before his departure from England he received a grant of 500 acres, of PENN, which he finally located here. He was an uncle of PHINEAS PEMBERTON, a member of Assembly in 1683, and a Justice for the county in 1689. After his death, his son, THOMAS YARDLEY, came in possession of his land on the Delaware, and established the first ferry here, which was subsequently confirmed and vested in his right by an act of Assembly, passed in 1722. This was afterwards long known as Yardley's ferry, which at a later day was changed to Yardleyville. According to SCULL'S map of 1770, the three great roads terminated here, leading to Philadelphia, via Attleborough, the Falls, and Newtown. The larger stream emptying into the Delaware here from the lower part of the township is marked as Mill creek.

The Commissioners appointed in 1786, by the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, confirmed to Lower Makefield, Slack's three islands, Dunn's island, and Harvey's lower island.

The enumeration of 1784 gives 722 white inhabitants, 26 blacks, 101 dwelling houses, 103 out-houses, and 9,947 acres of land.

CHAPTER XII.—MIDDLETOWN.

The lands of this township were all taken up and settled upon, very probably, before 1687. Amongst the original purchasers may be named Robert Hall, George White, John White, Richard Amer, William Amer, William Carter, Henry Paxson, William Paxson, Edward Samway, William Wiggins, Francis Dove,

Richard Amer, husbandman, came from Buchebury, Berkshire, in the ship Samuel, and arrived here the 22d of 7th month, 1682, with his servant, Stephen Lands. He took up 250 acres on the Neshaminy, a short distance below the present village of Hulmeville, where he settled. A few months after, in the same year, he died.

Henry Paxson came from Bycothouse, Oxfordshire, in the ship Samuel, as above. His wife and sons, Henry and John, and brother Thomas, all died at sea. He received a grant of 500 acres of William Penn, before his departure from England, which he located on the Neshaminy, adjoining the upper part of Hulmeville. On the 13th of 6th month, 1684, he married Margery, the widow of William Plumly, of Northampton. In 1707, he represented Bucks in the Assembly. The present road leading from Hulmeville to Fallsington, is laid on the original line between him and William Carter's tract, which is on the south side; both extended north-east from the Neshaminy, upwards of two miles.

Richard Davis, and his son David, came from Welshpoole, Wales, in the ship Morning Star, of Liverpool, and arrived here the 14th of 9th month, 1683.—David Davis, is believed to have been the first surgeon in Bucks. He married the 8th of 1st month, 1686, Margaret Evans, of this township. He lived but fifteen days afterwards, and was buried at (his neighbor) Nicholas Waln's burying ground.

James Dilworth, husbandman, came from Thornley, Lancashire, in the ship Lamb, and arrived here in the 8th month, 1682, with his son William, and servant, Stephen Land. He took up a tract here of 1000 acres, which had previously been granted him from William Penn, before his departure from England. It was situated between Attleborough and Bridgetown, and extended from the Neshaminy eastward within a mile of the Lower Makefield line.

Nicholas Waln, came from Yorkshire, and arrived here in the Welcome, with William Penn, in the 8th month, 1682. He was a distinguished preacher among the Friends, and resided on his extensive tract at the Neshaminy meeting house, near the present village of Attleborough. In the early history of Bucks he is a prominent character; he was long a member of Assembly, and on a religious account, in 1698, visited Friends in New England. He died in 6th month, 1744. We learn from the records that at his house on 25th of 8th month, 1684, Stephen Lands, was married to Jane Cowgill. And at the house of the latter, on the 26th of 6th month, 1686, Walter Bridgman was married to Blank Constable. Bridgman resided near the Newtown line.

John Cutler, and his brother Edmund, arrived in 1685, with servants, William Wardle and James Mulineaux, and finally settled here. John died in 1720. Robert Heaton, Sen., died in 1716; his son Robert, in 1708, I find was a landholder here. William Paxson, in 1701, was a member of Assembly. He died in 1731. Thomas Stackhouse, Sen., and his son Thomas, were the original owners of a great tract between the Neshaminy and Lower Makefield: in its southern limits was included the present site of Bridgetown. RICHARD THATCHER received in England a grant of 1000 acres. Likewise RALPH WARD and PHILIP ALFORD, who took up here 125 acres each, and FRANCIS DOVE 500 acres. ROBERT HALL, whose tract lay adjoining Bristol township, was a member of Assembly in 1683. THOMAS JENKS, I find in 1744 was also a resident of Middletown, and an owner of 145 acres.

ROBERT PROUD, in his history, mentions that, in 1684, THOMAS LANGHORNE, arrived and settled in Middletown, where then dwelt NICHOLAS WALN and others; that he was an eminent preacher among the Quakers: and of whom there is a very excellent and extraordinary character, in M. S. from Friends at Kendal, in Westmoreland, by way of certificate, on his removal to this country. He died in 1687, a few years after his arrival. His son, JEREMIAH LANGHORNE, was afterwards Chief Justice of the Province.

SMITH, in his history, states that the Friends from Neshaminy, joined the Friends of Falls monthly meeting till 1684, when they separated and joined the other part of Neshaminy Friends. And that the meetings for worship were first held here in 1682, at the houses of NICHOLAS WALN, ROBERT HALL, and JOHN OTTER, in Newtown. A general meeting for some time was held once every three weeke, at the house of ROBERT HALL, till the meeting house was built, about 1690.

In the time of the Revolution, and for a number of years previous, the present village of Attleborough, and its vicinity, was known as the Four-Lane's-End—we presume called so from the number of roads coming here together. It is marked by this name on SCULL's map, of 1770. HENRY TOMLINSON, of Bensalem, in his journal of May 24th, 1781, says:—"The lower battalion met at Four-Lane's-End. It is called a field day by the militia."

The enumeration of 1784, gives Middletown 698 white inhabitants, 43 blacks, 124 dwelling houses, 63 out-houses, and 12,000 acres of land.

JOHN SCARBOROUGH.

He came from London, coach-smith, arrived in this country in 1682, with his son, JOHN, then a youth, and settled in Middletown, in Bucks county, (adjoining NICHOLAS WALN's,) among the first in those parts: where he remained about two years, and then embarked for his native country, with intention to bring over his wife and family: having suffered much by persecution, for his religion, in England, being a Quaker.

During his residence in Pennsylvania, provisions being sometimes scarce in that part where he resided, especially in the first year, he is said to have had occasion to remark the providence of God, to him and his neighbors, when under the greatest difficulty.

The wild pigeons came in such great numbers, that the air was sometimes darkened by their flight, and flying low, they were frequently knocked down as they flew, in great quantities, by those who had no other means to take them, whereby they supplied themselves; and having salted those which they could not immediately use, they preserved them, both for bread and meat.

Thus they were supplied several times, during the first two or three years, till they had raised by their industry, food sufficient out of the ground. For the tilling of which, at that time, they used hoes, having neither horses nor ploughs.

The Indians were remarkably kind, and very assistant to them, in divers respects, frequently supplying them with such provisions as they could spare, &c. JOHN SCARBOROUGH, having placed his son under the care of a friend, sailed for England, but he never returned. His wife, who was not a Quaker, being unwilling to leave her native country, and persecution beginning to cease, he afterwards gave his possessions in Pennsylvania to his son, whom he had left in the province, with a strict charge when it should be in his power, to be kind to the poor Indians for the favors he had received from them; which his son faithfully observed, and is said to have been a worthy man.—PROUD, i. 223, from M. S. believed to be now lost.

CHAPTER XIII.—NEW BRITAIN.

This township, as we learn from the patent books of the Surveyor General, was at first called North Britain. Under this name, in 1735, LEWIS EVAN purchased 100 acres of land here of the Proprietaries.

From Holmes' map of original surveys, made previous to 1695, it appears that nearly the whole of the present area of the township, including two-thirds of Doylestown township and borough, was taken up by THOMAS HUDSON, Col. MILDMAY, and the "Society Land." HUDSON'S purchase lay between the Bristol and County Line roads, and extended from Warrington to Hilltown, and must have contained at least 5,000 acres. He also owned several other extensive tracts in different parts of the county. All I am able to give concerning him is derived from the county records, where he is mentioned as "a gentleman of Sutton, England." Most probably he never resided in this country, for we find he had attorneys appointed for the transaction of his business and sale of lands. Of Col. MILDMAY I am unable to give any information; his tract was somewhat larger than HUDSON'S, and extended partways into Hilltown.

The Society land, as marked on the map of surveys, extended in its southern course from the corner of New Britain and Warrington, on the Bristol road, directly north-east three miles, to about the present borough of Doylestown, and from thence northwest to MILDMAY'S tract, and may have contained in this space about 4,000 acres. With the exception of the above, no lands are given as surveyed up to the above date, to any purchasers on the east side of Neshaminy Creek, north of Wrightstown.

In the first volume of the county records mention is made that on the 22d and 23d of March, 1682, WILLIAM PENN granted to NICHOLAS MOORE, and others, of the Free Society of Traders, a tract of 20,000 acres of land; and by a charter dated the 25th of the same month, erects it into the Manor of Frank, with nearly feudal prerogatives, amongst which was the power to control and regulate the government thereof, hold and establish courts, &c. The probability is that this manor, as stated, never was formed, for no evidences at least are found in proof of it. But the Society Land here referred to, may have possibly been taken up by

HOULE, WILLIAM MORTON, and ELIZA EATON. He received a grant for one thousand acres from WILLIAM PENN, in England, before his departure, which, on his arrival, he located here. We find in 1689, he was one of the Justices for the county.

JOHN CLOWS, yeoman, of Gosworth, Cheshire, arrived here in the Endeavor, in 1683, with his wife, MARGERY, and children, SARAH, MARGERY, and WILLIAM; and servants, JOSEPH CHORLEY, SAMUEL HOUGH, and JOHN RICHARDSON. The same year we find him a member of Assembly. His daughter, MARGERY, was married at his house, to RICHARD HOUGH, the 17th of 1st month, 1683. SARAH, was married to JOHN BAINBRIDGE, the 15th of 6th month, 1685. We learn from the records that JOHN CLOWS died in 1688. JOSEPH CHORLEY, mentioned as his servant, was married the 6th of 2nd month, 1686, to MARY ACKERMAN.

He also owned several other extensive tracts in different parts of the county. All I am able to give concerning him is derived from the county records, where he is mentioned as "a gentleman of Sutton, England." Most probably he never resided in this country, for we find he had attorneys appointed for the transaction of his business and sale of lands. Of Col. MILDMAY I am unable to give any information; his tract was somewhat larger than HUDSON'S, and extended partways into Hilltown.

The Society land, as marked on the map of surveys, extended in its southern course from the corner of New Britain and Warrington, on the Bristol road, directly north-east three miles, to about the present borough of Doylestown, and from thence northwest to MILDMAY'S tract, and may have contained in this space about 4,000 acres. With the exception of the above, no lands are given as surveyed up to the above date, to any purchasers on the east side of Neshaminy Creek, north of Wrightstown.

In the first volume of the county records mention is made that on the 22d and 23d of March, 1682, WILLIAM PENN granted to NICHOLAS MOORE, and others, of the Free Society of Traders, a tract of 20,000 acres of land: and by a charter dated the 25th of the same month, erects it into the Manor of Frank, with nearly feudal prerogatives, amongst which was the power to control and regulate the government thereof, hold and establish courts, &c. The probability is that this manor, as stated, never was formed, for no evidences at least are found in proof of it. But the Society Land here referred to, may have possibly been taken up by following came previous to the 29th of 8th month, 1682: RICHARD AMOR, HENRY PAXSON, LUKE BRINSLEY, JOHN CLOW, JOSEPH CLOW, JOHN BROCK, WILLIAM VENABLES, and JOHN HEYCOCK. GEORGE POWNALL and WILLIAM YARDLEY came, also, this year, with their families. Several of these took up lands in the vicinity of the Falls, by virtue of patents from Sir EDMUND ANDROS, governor of New York, when this country was not known as Pennsylvania, being a short time previous to PENN'S grant from Charles II., in March, 1681.

CHAPTER VI.

THE FORMATION AND PROGRESS OF THE COUNTY.

WILLIAM PENN, the founder of Pennsylvania, landed at Upland, now called Chester, on the 29th of October,* 1682, in the ship Welcome, commanded by ROBERT GREENAWAY. One of the first acts of PENN, was to naturalize all the settlers who had seated themselves previously, and had remained after his arrival; and it appears to have been his warmest desire to extinguish every kind of title, or claims to the lands necessary for the accommodation of his colony, and to live in lasting terms of friendship with the Indians.

With those who came in the Welcome, with the great founder, and settled in Bucks, were THOMAS FITZWATER, NICHOLAS WALN, CUTHBERT HAYHURST, GILES KNIGHT, JOHN ROWLAND, THOMAS ROWLAND, and WILLIAM BUCKMAN, all having families. Shortly after in the same year, the following, also, arrived: HENRY MARJORUM, WILLIAM BRAKS, HENRY COMLY, JOHN SCARBOROUGH, THOMAS WALMSLEY, RANDOLPH BLACKSHAW, JAMES HARRISON, PHINEAS PEMBERTON, RALPH PEMBERTON, ROBERT BOND, JOSEPH KIRKBRIDE, ELLIS JONES, JAMES CLAYTON, and JAMES DILWORTH. In 1683, THOMAS JANNEY, GEORGE STONE, RICHARD HOUGH, JOHN PALMER, JOSHUA HOOPES, WILLIAM BENNET, JOHN HOUGH, HENRY BAKER, JOSEPH GROWDON, LAWRENCE GROWDON, and DAVID DAVIS. In 1684, JOHN CHAPMAN, THOMAS LANGHORN, and DAVID HALL. The succeeding year came JOHN CLOWS, Sr., EDMUND CUTTER and EDWARD STANTON. Most of these mentioned brought families and a considerable number of servants, male and female; also relatives.

As at this time much interest is expressed concerning the early settlers, especially by their numerous descendents, we take occasion here to say that in our future articles, on the local history of the county, full particulars will be given, or at least as much so as success has favored our researches.

On the 4th of December, following, WILLIAM PENN called together, at Chester, the first Assembly, and Bucks with Philadelphia and Chester, formed the three original counties. The members from Bucks were, WILLIAM YARDLEY, SAMUEL DARKE, ROBERT LUCAS, NICHOLAS WALN, JOHN WOOD, JOHN CLOWS, THOMAS FITZWATER, ROBERT HALL, and JAMES BOYDEN. RICHARD NOBLE was chosen the first sheriff. At a Council held at Philadelphia, the 23d of 1st month, 1683, in the presence of the Proprietary and Governor, it was ordered, "That the seal of the county of Bucks be a Tree and Vine."

About the time that WILLIAM PENN organized the county, in 1682, he selected an extensive tract of fine land on the banks of the Delaware, four or five miles above where Bristol now stands, which he called Pennsbury Manor, intending to establish there his favorite country residence. He says in a letter he had bought it a short time previously of an old Indian King, and had once been a royalty called Sepessin. This name I also find on LINDSTROME'S map of 1654, as given to the stream afterwards called Welcome creek. This tract originally contained 8,431 acres, but after 1684, was reduced by various grants. Here, by the margin of the Delaware, PENN got his mansion constructed in the years 1682-3, under the direction of his relative, MARKHAM, at a cost of £7000, which at that day was a great sum. For its better construction a considerable quantity of the most finished and ornamental materials had been brought from England. Here he lived after 1683 with his family for several years, and held numerous treaties and covenants with the Indians, religious meetings, &c.

The first English settlers located themselves along the Delaware, mostly in the vicinity of the Falls, Pennsbury, and Bristol. They nearly all belonged to the Society of Friends, and strong expectations were entertained by many of them at first that the city of Philadelphia would be located either at Pennsbury, or Bristol; but it was deemed that the river channel was too shallow for ship navigation up so far as those places. From the arrival of PENN, we may date the continued prosperity of the county, down to the present time, assisted, as it was, by a steady influx of emigrants from Europe.

PHINEAS PEMBERTON, whom we have already mentioned, as having shortly arrived here after PENN, and who is so well and favorably known in the early annals of Bucks, was commissioned the first Clerk of the Court, as the following for the first time published bears testimony:

"WILLIAM PENN, Proprietary and Governor of the Provence of Pennsylvania and the Territories thereunto belonging. To PHINEAS PEMBERTON greeting: Reposing confidence in thy integrity and ability, I do hereby constitute and appoint thee Clark of the Court of the County of Bucks, to act in the same employment with all diligence, faithfulness and according to law; and to receive the fees due as by law directed. This Commission to be of force as long as thou shalt well behave thyself therein. Given at Pennsbury the Twenty-first of the Fifth month, One thousand six hundred and eighty-three. WM. PENN."

It appears the bounds of the county were not clearly determined on till the 8th of 2d month, 1685, when the Council passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, there is a necessity to ascertain the bounds of the several counties of Pennsylvania, in order to the raising and collecting of taxes, public monies, and otherways to adjust the limits of the respective Sheriffs for the performing of their power and duty; and also, that the people might know into what county they belong and appertain to answer their duties and places; and whereas, the Governor, in the presence of THOMAS JANNEY and PHINEAS PEMBERTON, was pleased to say and grant that the bounds of the county of Bucks and Philadelphia should be as follows:—

"To begin at the mouth of Poetquessink creek on Delaware, and so by the said creek, and to take in the townships of Southampton and Warminster, in obedience thereto and confirmation thereof, the President and Council having seriously weighed and considered the same, have and do hereby agree and order that the bounds between the said counties

shall be thus: to begin at the mouth of Poetquessink creek on Delaware river, and go up thence along the said creek by the several cources thereof, to a southwest and northeast line, which said line divides the land belonging to JOSEPH GROWDON and company, from Southampton township; from thence by a line of marked trees along the said line 120 perches more or less, from thence northwest by a line of marked trees, which said line in part divides the land belonging to NICHOLAS MOORE from Southampton and Warminster townships, continuing the said line as far as the said county shall extend."*

The Council on the 2d of 11th month, 1689, "Ordered that commissions of the Peace be made for all the counties, and these persons following be inserted." For Bucks, ARTHUR COOK, JOSEPH GROWDEN, WILLIAM YARDLEY, THOMAS JANNEY, WILLIAM BILES, NICHOLAS NEWLIN, JOHN BROCK, and HENRY BAKER.

Concerning the "Court of Inquiry" we believe nothing has yet been published. The following commission constituting it was copied literally from the original document now in possession of the Historical Society; this is our apology for giving it at length.

"WILLIAM PENN, absolute Proprietary and governor in Chief of the Provence of Pennsylvania and territories thereunto belonging.

"To my Trusty and well beloved ffriends PHINEAS PEMBERTON, WILLIAM BILES, and RICHARD HOUGH—sendeth Greeting:—

"For the compleat Settling and Establishing of Affairs of Property within the County of Bucks in this Provence of Pensilvania. KNOW ye That I have constituted and appointed you, and doe hereby appoint and Commission You the said PHINEAS PEMBERTON, WILLIAM BILES, and RICHARD HOUGH, or any two of You to hold a Court of Inquiry, for examining, Searching and Inquiring into the Rights, Titles and Claims of all and Singular the ffreeholders or Inhabitants of the said County, to any Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments within the same, at such times and places in the said county as to you shall seem most convenient. Hereby granting unto you full power and authority by your Order or Warrant under the hand of any two of you, to summon or cause to be summoned all persons concerned to appear before you in the said Court, as you shall appoint; to produce all Grants, Letters Patent, Conveyances, Records, and all other Papers and Writings, as you shall see cause, that in any wise relate to Their Titles or Claims as aforesaid. ALSO to commend and require all needful Officers, especially ye Constables of the said County, to attend your Service, as there shall be occasion, who are hereby required and Commanded to obey all your Orders respectively herein. I doe also hereby further Improve You the said PHINEAS PEMBERTON, WILLIAM BILES, and RICHARD HOUGH, or any two of you, fully to inquire into the State of my Quitrents in the said County, and diligently to examine what part of the Said Rents have been paid, and to whom, and what remaineth behind unpaid, and to take and keep an exact account thereof. ALSO carefully to inquire into all Escheats, fines and ffurfeitures, that are fallen to me or become my due in ye sd County, And of all your Proceedings in pursuance of this Commission make a due and faithful Report to me fairly in writing, under your hands, to the end that ye State of Property in the Said County being particularly known, the respective Inhabitants and ffreeholders may be the more effectually Settled and Confirmed in all their just titles and Claims to lands therein. Given under my Hand and great Seal of the Provence, at Philadelphia, the eighteenth day of the Tenth Month, 1700.

WM. PENN."

From PHINEAS PEMBERTON'S "Registry of all wills, letters of administrations," &c., beginning with the 10th of 10 month, 1684 to 1693, in the Recorder's office, we have evidence enough of the great mortality among the early settlers. This no doubt, was much owing to change of life and country. From PEMBERTON'S letters, we also learn, that in 1687, a great land flood and freshet at the Falls occasioned much sickness. On the 27th of 2d month, 1692, from the sudden melting of the snow, the water rose twelve feet above usual high water mark. It even reached the upper stories of some of the houses built on the low lands.

In 1700, WILLIAM BILES was a member of the Provincial Council. The following year PHINEAS PEMBERTON was appointed by PENN one of his council of State, and SAMUEL PRESTON to the Provincial Council. JOSEPH GROWDON, JOHN SWIFT, JOSHUA HOOPES, and WILLIAM PAXSON were members of Assembly, of which JOSEPH GROWDEN presided as Speaker.

WILLIAM CROASDALE being sheriff, returned as members in 1707, HENRY PAXSON, SAMUEL DARKE, JOHN SWIFT, WILLIAM PAXSON, THOMAS HILLBORN, WILLIAM BILES, EZRA CROASDALE, and SAMUEL BEAKS. WILLIAM BILES became coroner in 1717. In October, 1725, the following were elected members for Bucks': JEREMIAH LANGHORN, WILLIAM BILES, JOSEPH FELL, ABRAHAM CHAPMAN, CHRISTIAN VANHORN, MATHEW HUGHES, BENJAMIN JONES, and THOMAS WATSON.

The progress of settlement in Bucks is shown by a petition numerously signed, praying the Council to grant them a road for the convenience of travel, from the river Delaware to Philadelphia, which was passed by the Governor and Council, Nov. 3d, 1711; and was laid out the same month by PETER CHAMBERLAIN, GEORGE SHOEMAKER, DANIEL THOMAS, ISAAC KNIGHT, HENRY BENNET, JOHN SCARBOROUGH, THOMAS WATSON, STEPHEN JENKENS, NATHANIEL BYE, MATHEW HUGHES, and GRIFFITH MILES. It was commenced opposite JOHN READING'S landing, in Solebury, to Buckingham Meeting House, then through THOMAS WATSON'S land, by the house of STEPHEN JENKENS and GEORGE SHOEMAKER, to Philadelphia. This is now known as the old York road; and JOHN READING'S landing, in Solebury, as mentioned, was at a later period known as Howell's Ferry, now Centre Bridge, four miles above New Hope.

In this country when the Europeans first came, they found much to interest and surprise, occasioned by the novelty of things around them; generally so different from what they had been accustomed to. As an instance the following is Mr. SANDEL'S account of the first general appearance of the locusts:

In May, 1715, a multitude of locusts came out of the ground everywhere, even on the solid roads. They were wholly covered with a shell, and it seemed very wonderful that they could with this penetrate the hard earth. Having come out of the earth, they crept out of the shells, flew away, sat down on the trees, and made a peculiar noise till evenings. Being spread over the country in such numbers, the noise they made was so loud that the cow-bells could scarcely be heard in the woods. They pierced the bark on the branches of trees, and deposited their eggs in the opening. Many apprehended that the trees would wither in consequence of this, but no symptom of it was observed next year. Hogs and poultry fed on them. Even the Indians did eat them, especially when they first came, boiling them a little. They did not continue long, but died in the month of June. The same year was very fruitful.*

In 1717, the governor, Sir WILLIAM KEITH, with the advice of the Council, appointed the following persons Justices of the Peace, for the county of Bucks:—JOSEPH KIRKBRIDE, JEREMIAH LANGHORNE, THOMAS STEVENSON, THOMAS WATSON, EVERARD BOULTON, THOMAS WATSON, of Buckingham, WILLIAM BILES, ANTHONY BURTON, JOHN SNOWDEN, JOSEPH BOND, JOHN HALL, and CHRISTOPHER VANSANT, and a Commission is ordered to pass the Great Seal.†

By an act of the General Assembly, passed March 20th, 1724, the county buildings for Bucks were directed to be built at Newtown, as being more central and convenient for the people. Heretofore the courts and county business had been transacted at Bristol, for nearly a quarter of a century, but as the population kept steadily extending itself upwards more into the country, the change had become desirable. We believe the courts were not held at Newtown till 1725, owing probably till on or near the completion of the court house.

To Bucks county belongs the honor of having one of the earliest Seminaries of learning in the State. The Rev. WILLIAM TENNENT came from Ireland, in 1718, and three years after settled in Bensalem; from thence about 1728, he removed to the Neshaminy, in Warwick township, and established here an Academy, which was more particularly intended for the education of ministers for the Presbyterian church. As Mr. TENNENT was much celebrated for his profound and accurate acquaintance with the Latin and Greek classics, which he taught here with great success, his school justly became distinguished as having produced some of the earliest and ablest divines in the church, among whom could be named ROWLAND, LAWRENCE, CAMPBELL, BEATTY, ROBINSON, BLAIR, and the four sons of Mr. TENNENT, GILBERT, WILLIAM, JOHN, and CHARLES. In consequence of having been constructed of logs, this school has been popularly denominated the the "Log College."

The following Justices of the Peace were commissioned for Bucks, the 22d of November, 1738; WILLIAM BILES, JOSEPH KIRKBRIDE, THOMAS CANBY, THOMAS YARDLEY, MATHEW HUGHES, LAWRENCE GROWDON, BENJAMIN JONES, ISAAC PENNINGTON, ABRAHAM PENNINGTON, ABRAHAM CHAPMAN, SIMON BUTLER, JOHN WELLS, MATHEW KUW, RICHARD MITCHELL, of Durham, and the Chief Burgess of Bristol, for the time being.

To show the changes of the seasons formerly, we extract the following from COMLY'S sketches of Byberry:

"Old people used to tell us that the winters formerly were more remarkable for cold weather, and that there was more snow than of latter time. In the hard winter of 1740, the snow covered the fences; and the crust on the top of it was so firm that it would bear sleds and horses, so that people could travel in any direction, without reference to roads. We are also told of a very moderate winter, the ground being so little frozen that they could plough all winter with the exception of two or three days."*

An act was passed the 11th of March, 1752, to erect the northwestern part of Bucks into a separate county; the necessity of which will appear obvious in the following extract:

"Whereas a great number of the inhabitants of the upper parts of the county of Bucks, by their petition, have humbly represented to the Governor and Assembly of this provence the great hardships they lay under by being so remote from the present seat of judicature, and the public offices, that the necessary means to be used for obtaining justice is attended with so much difficulty and expense, that many forego their right, rather than attempt the recovery of it under such circumstances, while others, sensible of these difficulties, commit great villanies with impunity. For remedying whereof, and for relief of the inhabitants, Be it enacted, That all and singular the lands lying within the provence of Pennsylvania, aforesaid, be erected into a county, and the same is hereby erected into a county, named, and henceforth to be called, Northampton; to be divided from the county of Bucks by the upper or northwestward line of Durham tract, to the upper corner thereof; then by a streight line to be run southwestwardly to the line dividing Philadelphia and Bucks counties; and then by that line to the extremity of the said provence."

Previous to the passage of this act, Bucks in its extent underwent no altera-

tions from the time of its formation in 1682, a period of seventy years, and must have then contained at least 1364 square miles. That is by allowing it to have extended to the Kittatinny mountains, though it really, on the Delaware, extended, as we shall see, somewhat further. The division line of 1685 extended in a northwest course from the Poetquessing creek, to an indefinite length, but finally as the population spread, was terminated at the Kittatinny or Blue mountains, then some distance beyond any white settlements. From the county records we learn that WILLIAM ALLEN and NICHOLAS DEPUE, as early as 1733, purchased great tracts of lands above the mountains on the Delaware, which are stated to be in Bucks. Mention is likewise made of a Shawnee town. One island, called Maw-wallamink, containing 126 acres, is stated to be opposite DEPUE'S place of residence; the other containing 146 acres, is called the Great Shawnee Island, and being opposite the said Indian town. The lands about the confluence of the Lehigh and Delaware rivers, were mostly taken up about 1737; when BENJAMIN EASBURN, the surveyor-general, laid out several tracts, containing upwards of 3,000 acres, for WILLIAM ALLEN of Philadelphia. About 1738 to 1740, the Moravians settled in and near Bethlehem and Nazareth, and what is now known as Milford, Saucon, and several adjoining townships had been settled sometime earlier. So Northampton, at the time of its formation, most probably contained several thousand inhabitants, and a majority of these resided upwards of forty miles from Newtown, the county seat of Bucks. With our present conveniences, we can hardly realize the difficulties that beset the hardy pioneers.

In the time of the French and Indian war in the year 1756, the people of this county organized, for their protection, nine associated companies, as they were called, containing 513 men, but their services we believe never were required.—The following list of officers is given from the Archives.*

From the formation of the county to the commencement of the Revolution, a century had nearly elapsed, yet in all this time, peace, tranquility and contentment prevailed within her borders; the historian cannot chronicle here scenes of violence and bloodshed. The whites, though composed of the different nations of Europe, not only lived in harmony with the natives, but with each other; thus the country rapidly advanced in population, knowledge, and the arts and sciences. Love thy neighbor as thyself was practically carried out by the kindness, justice, and generosity of the early settlers. The Indians—the rude and untutored sons of the forest—reciprocated every act, with some of the noblest traits that adorn human nature. During the long and bloody wars on our frontiers, which continued with little intermission from 1744 to 1764, scenes of the most atrocious and barbarous character were enacted, as if each side endeavored to excel the other in cruelty; the people of Bucks county adhered to their pacific character and remained unmolested. Had the Proprietaries and successors of William Penn adhered to his principles, no doubt the result would have been different; the people here were sensible of their misconduct, and long, no doubt, before the Revolution was thought of, a change was desired, that they might choose their own rulers and control the affairs of government as best suited their wishes. But the wheel of Time was hastening the event, yea, sooner, it seems, than was anticipated. Like the mountain avalanche, its speed increased with its progress, till no obstacles could resist its impetuosity.

CHAPTER VII.

The Commencement of the Revolution.

At a meeting of a number of the inhabitants of the county of Bucks, held at Newtown, agreeable to notice given, on Saturday the 9th day of July, 1774, Gilbert Hicks, Esq., was appointed Chairman, and William Walton, Secretary. The chairman, having taken his place, in a short address to the company explained the nature and intention of the meeting, when they proceeded to business, which was carried on and finished with the greatest propriety and harmony.

"In this time of public distress, when, by the operation of divers acts of the British Parliament, the Americans are subjected to the universal control of a Legislature, in which they are not represented. The inhabitants of the county of Bucks, at a meeting held, at Newtown, on the 9th day of July, appointed the following gentlemen as a committee to represent them at a meeting of the several committees of the respective counties of Pennsylvania, to be held at Philadelphia, the 15th day of July, inst., viz: John Kidd, Joseph Kirkbride, Joseph Hart, James Wallace, Henry Wynkoop, Samuel Foulke, and Joseph Wilkinson.

"After which the sense of the inhabitants of the said county, was recommended to them as general rules for their conduct at the said meeting in the following resolves, viz:

"Resolved, That the inhabitants of this county have the same opinion of the dangerous tendency of the claims of the British Parliament, to make laws, binding on the inhabitants of these Colonies, in all cases whatsoever, without their consent, as other our fellow American subjects have.

"Resolved, That it is the duty of every American, when oppress by measures either of Ministry, Parliament, or any other power, to use every lawful endeavor to obtain relief, and to form and promote a plan of union, between the Parent country and Colonies, in which the claim of the Parent country may be ascertained, and the liberties of the Colonies defined and secured, that no cause of contention, in future, may arise to disturb that harmony, so necessary for the interest and happiness of both; and that this will be best done, in a General Congress, to be composed of Delegates, to be appointed either by the respective Colonial Assemblies, or by the members thereof, in convention.

"A large majority of the Committee chosen on the 15th of December last, in pursuance of notice for that purpose given, assembled in Newtown, January 10th, 1775, and unanimously chose Joseph Hart, Esq., Chairman, and John Chapman, Secretary.

"The Committee then taking into consideration the measures recommended by the Continental Congress, for the redress of American grievances, entered into the following resolves, unanimously:

"1st. That we highly approve of the pacific measures recommended by the Continental Congress, for redress of American grievances, and do hereby render our unfeigned thanks to the worthy gentlemen who composed that august Assembly, for the faithful discharge of the trust reposed in them.

"2d. That we hold ourselves bound in justice to ourselves, our posterity, our king and
